

Firm Specializing In Finance And Operations Expands Client Base And Web Site

Scottsdale, AZ (PRWEB) April 9, 2007 – Business Performance Solutions (BPS), a firm of financial advisors, recently expanded their client base and launched a web site that highlights the firm's capabilities and areas of focus. For more than three decades, the leaders at BPS have helped build successful capital plans, manage audit and tax related issues, shorten the receivables cycle, and implemented variance reporting that has improved their client's bottom line.

"Looking forward, we are pleased with the recent client additions from the fields of structural engineering architecture, and finance," states Barbara Olivieri, President of Business Performance Solutions. "During the first quarter we will continue to navigate tax matters and manage compliance issues which include, but are not limited to Sarbanes-Oxley regulations that can impact our entire client base that extends to the fields of architecture, construction, and manufacturing."

Building a strong company and implementing change takes objectivity, strength, and experience In today's competitive environment. How will your leadership team reach their aggressive goals this year?

"Early on we learned when it was time to set aside the keyboard and pick up a hammer," adds Lou Olivieri, Chief Operating Officer with BPS. "In certain industries procrastination can have a negative impact on cash flow. With a strong understanding of operations and finance, we have been very successful in helping our clients streamline key processes for more efficient, and ultimately, more profitable businesses."
